NICE NEW QUARTERS

The Firemen Take Possession of the Department Hall.

JOLLY FAREWELL BANQUET

An Appropriate Adieu to the Old and Iried Watchtower of Ancient Days—All Apparatus Removed, Including the Dog.

The fire department moved yesterday into the new quarters in the city hall. The last regular monthly meeting was held in the old fire hall Thursday night, and after the regular routine had been disposed of and the report of Secretary O'Brien on the results of the meeting last week in Helena heard, the department inaugurated an impromptu farewell to the building that has so long been the home of the department.

A committee was appointed and a banquet of the nature of a Dutch lunch was prepared. As the bill of fare was discussed extempore speeches were called for from all present. Music was furnished by an orchestra, and like many another impromptu amusement, the affair was a complete and pleasing success.

In the morning the apparatus of the department was moved and the firemen busied themselves in settling down and arranging the new quarters. The accommodations are none too large for the present equipment. The new hose wagon was set in position in front of the stalls at the right of the ground floor and in front of the stalls. The horses, which are to be trained in hauling it, are expected to arrive to-day. The team is a well-matched pair of iron-gray from the Blister Rock Stock Farm.

On the second floor is the sleeping room for the paid department. It contains six iron beds, and is connected with the room below by a hole in the floor, through which a post will pass for them to slide down.

The firemen have furnished their own bedding and have very comfortable lodgings. Each man has a wardrobe closet to himself and there is a well-equipped bathroom for their convenience. "Gyp," the pet pup, and the tabby cat, with her kittens, were moved with the rest of the furniture.

Drill will be at once put into practice and by hard work Chief Elston expects to have his men and the department up to metropolitan efficiency in a short time.

MAULIFFE WHIPPED.

Choyanski Was Too Much for the "Mission Giant," Who Lasted Four Rounds.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The Occidental Athletic club gave a series of fights to-night in its new pavilion at Woodward's garden. The place was well filled with a crowd of 5,000 persons. The chief event was the eighth round "go" between Joe Choyanski and Joe Mauliffe, the "Mission Giant," the first man defeated by Peter Jackson, the man who came to this country six years ago. Mauliffe has been on the retired list for two or three years. He began training for the present contest, weighing 285 pounds, and entered the ring to-night at about 225 to 230 pounds. The men presented a great contrast as they shook hands for the first round. Mauliffe towered nearly four inches above his antagonist, with an advantage of three inches in reach. His appearance indicated he had reduced his weight at the expense of his strength and endurance. Choyanski, on the contrary, looked the picture of strength. He was trained to the hour and what he lacked in height, weight and reach, he made up in wonderful muscular development and cleverness. He entered the ring at about 170 pounds.

Choyanski assumed the aggressive from the start and hit Mauliffe when and where he pleased. The "Mission Giant" was completely outmatched and was a plaything in Choyanski's hands. Little Joe played on Big Joe's wind and jaw with his right and when the giant came up for the fourth round he was perceptibly winded. In this round Choyanski went at his man like a demon. First a poke in the stomach with his left and a jab in the face with his right soon made Mauliffe groggy. Finally in the middle of the round Choyanski swung his right with terrific force. It landed on Mauliffe's jaw and the fight was over. The giant's legs weakened and he fell to the floor with a crash. He could not get up within the required 10 seconds and the fight was awarded to Choyanski. The latter was unpunished and was in good condition when the fight ended. His clumsy antagonist managed to land on Choyanski's face once or twice and sent his head back, but that did not keep the smaller man from going at him relentlessly. Mauliffe's efforts to reduce his weight told on his strength and he could not keep up the fast pace set for him.

The fight between Spider Kelly and Gus Herget, lightweights, was given to Kelly after a fiercely fought battle. Round 1—Choyanski assumed the aggressive with a left to the head, getting away without a return blow. He repeated this blow three times and made Mauliffe grunt. Choyanski reached the face with a left swing. Mauliffe reached Choyanski's body with a light left. Both led with the left and countered on the face. Choyanski reached the face with a left swing and Mauliffe returned the compliment on Choyanski's face three times with his left in quick succession and got one on the face in return. The round was in Choyanski's favor.

Round 2—Choyanski reached the wind twice with terrific left swings. Mauliffe guarding his wind, left an opening for the face, which Choyanski took advantage of, leading and landing on the face with left swings three times in rapid succession. Mauliffe did some leading, but his clever antagonist got out of reach of the giant's long arms. Mauliffe landed on the body and got a hard left on the nose which brought blood. Choyanski went at his man like a demon and landed with his left on the wind and right over the heart. Choyanski avoided the hard body blows. Choyanski rushed his man and landed hard on the body and face with his left. Mauliffe got in left on the head which put Choyanski's curly head back. The round was decidedly in Choyanski's favor.

Round 3—Mauliffe led with his left and Choyanski ducked. Mauliffe ducked a wicked left swing. Choyanski reached the face twice with his left and again reached the wind with the same hand. The remainder of the round was a series of left swings on the wind and left jabs in the face from Choyanski, which told perceptibly on the big man. At the end of the round Mauliffe was somewhat winded. He reached Choyanski two or three times, but his blows lacked steam. The round ended with a vicious left swing from Choyanski which staggered Mauliffe.

Round 4, and last—Choyanski saw his advantage and went at his man from the ring of the bell, smashing him with his left in the wind and right drives in the jaw. He soon had his man groggy and a right on the chin put the giant against the ropes from which he reeled and fell to the floor. He looked to be able to get up, but evidently had enough of Choyanski's swings and punches, so he remained down until the referee had counted 10.

McKINLEY'S CALLERS

Members of the National Republican League Pay Him a Visit.

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Spokesman Goodnoe Assures the Major That He'll Catch the Factory Vote and the Candidate Responds, as Usual.

Canton, O., Aug. 28.—The members of the National Republican league committee from Milwaukee that called on Major McKinley to-day included Col. George S. Stone of California, R. G. Dawes, Nebraska; John Goodnoe, Minnesota; S. E. Glavin, Wisconsin; L. F. Walker, Wisconsin; T. F. Meyer, W. F. Poucher, New Jersey; George W. Ruch, Pennsylvania; F. J. Higgins, New Jersey; M. J. Dowling, Missouri; Congressman Howell, New Jersey; Congressman McEwan, New Jersey; B. J. McElroy, Mount Vernon, O., and Charles Leach, president of the Ohio State Republican league. John Goodnoe spoke for President Woodmansee of the league, who could not be here, as follows:

"Major McKinley—We come to you as the executive committee of the National League of Republican clubs, instructed by the Milwaukee convention to assure you that the league clubs in every state in the union are loyal to you and active in their support of the principles for which you stand. To the end of the campaign you will find every league man at his post doing all in his power for the success of the republican party. I do not need to tell you the details of our organization. We are proud of the fact that you have been one of us and in sympathy with our methods ever since the organization of the league in 1887. You know that the national league is composed of clubs from every state. Its active membership at this time is over 2,000,000 voters. It has ever been only for the success of the party and its principles, and has never attempted to interfere with nominations nor appointments. In that sense, we are not practical politicians. The league is founded on the fact that it is the duty of every citizen to study public questions and having studied them, it is his privilege to assure in the most effective way at his command the practical success of the policies and principles he deemed best for the good of the whole country. Our motto is educate and organize. It has been the method of the clubs to study and discuss public questions during campaigns, to present republican doctrine to young men about to cast their first vote, and to the new voter at a time when they have leisure to study dispassionately. Faith built up in this manner and founded on truth cannot be disturbed by the excitement and impulses of a campaign. Republicans so made are republicans for conviction and not easily led astray. They are steady, fighting republicans, for they fight the principles which they earnestly believe are essential to the welfare of the people. For the success of these principles they have organized themselves into campaign clubs, pledged now to work for the success of the party and its whole ticket. From these clubs we bring you greeting. You wear upon your coat, sir, the button of a private who fought not for money, nor for glory, but for the principle and integrity of the union. We wear the league button, the button of a private in the republican army, who is fighting to-day, not for office, nor for fame, but for the principle and honor of the nation. You will remember, sir, how the army looked to General Grant, their leader, in whom they had implicit confidence. We, your troops, look to you as our leader, always in front of the fight, never dismayed by reverses, bold, aggressive and sure to lead us to victory. From the farms of the Northwest to the plantations of Louisiana, from the groves of California to the mines and factories of West Virginia and New Jersey, we bring to you word that the ranks of the workers are unwavering and that the plain people believe your success their success. The farms and factories and workshops are for McKinley and Hobart, for protection and reciprocity, for sound money and the nation's honor."

Major McKinley replied: Mr. Goodnoe and gentlemen—it gives me great pleasure to greet at my home this large committee representing republican clubs of the United States. I know something of your worth and work. I know how in former campaigns the splendid services of the republicans of the country have contributed to bring to us the most signal triumphs. I am glad to hear from your spokesman, fresh from your national convention, that the republican party and republican cause this year are to have your united, aggressive and unfaltering support, which will come from all classes of our fellow citizens everywhere, will give to the national ticket and to our party a triumph, the like of which we have not had for many years. We cannot overestimate the value of young men in politics, and I would not have believed it if Mr. Goodnoe had not told me that they were not practical politicians. My experience with them has been that they have been politicians of the most practical sort known in American politics.

"Gentlemen, you never had a worthier cause to strive for than you have this year. The financial honor of the country and the prosperity of all its people are enough to inspire every American heart to the best possible effort. I have seen somewhere an inquiry: 'Cannot the United States establish a financial system of its own; is it too weak and dependent to do this?' I answer, the United States now has a financial policy which, in the main, it has been pursuing since the beginning of the government and which it does not mean to change until it can find a better one. Those who make the inquiry are usually against the American policy of finance and they are insisting that we shall adopt the financial policy of China and Mexico. I hope it will not be thought an evidence of lack of national spirit or national independence that we decline to adopt their propositions."

A delegation of 300 people from the East Ohio United Brethren conference followed closely upon the call of the league committee. Bishop J. S. Mills made the presentation of the party. To this Governor McKinley replied:

"Bishop Mills, ladies and gentlemen of the East Ohio Brethren Church: It gives me sincere pleasure to respond to this call of greeting and congratulation. I am duly appreciative of the message of good will which you so kindly bring from the great religious body which you represent. It is a good omen when religious teachers are alive to the questions which tend to make the country great, prosperous and righteous. Civic virtue is a good text for a preacher always, but a better thing for every citizen to guide is his daily life. Good citizenship lays at the foundation of your true greatness as a free government. Those who proclaim it are indeed Christian teachers and public benefactors. The better the citizen the better the free government of its laws. It is a gratifying fact, as you state, that in our form of government, character counts for so much. Lack of it almost amounts to a disqualification of public trusts. Whatever men's individual opinions on moral questions are, or may be, whether good or bad, whatever may be their party affiliations, all prefer that public officials shall be of high character and worth. They may be careless in their own lives, but they insist that those who are to execute the public will, shall be men of unquestioned integrity."

TO OVERTHROW TURKEY.

It is Rumored That a Provisional Government Will Be Appointed.

London, Aug. 28.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Rome says that private letters just received from Constantinople state that the Turkish government is on the eve of being overthrown and that a provisional government will be appointed.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

New York, Aug. 28.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say: The volume of general business has not increased within the week. Expectations appear to be brighter at Baltimore, Louisville and Kansas City, which send out more favorable reports as to the quantities of general merchandise sold than any other centers. The early movement of crops is said to be behind the increased orders. Another encouraging influence is found in lower rates for foreign exchange, the movement of $10,000,000 gold from abroad to the United States and the expression of the opinion that not less than $25,000,000 in gold is to be imported in the near future. Conspicuous among the checks to trade are the greatly increased firmness for money at nearly all financial centers. As at New York, banks at most of the large cities report windfalls of deposits, in many instances by country banks, higher rates for call loans and at some points practical refusal to make time loans. Jobbers and manufacturers report no general increase in demand for staple merchandise. Trade opinion is that little gain in business need be expected until after election. Merchants in regions where cotton and new wheat are moving freely are somewhat hopeful as to prospects. The record of the week's business failures in the United States shows a large increase over last week, 320, as compared with 254.

The Robbers' Round-up.

Silver City, N. M., Aug. 28.—Word was received here last night that nine men composing the gang of desperadoes who robbed the Separ postoffice and held up the Nogales bank and killed and wounded several members of the party which pursued them, are surrounded in Skeleton canyon, in Coconino county, Arizona, a posse of United States marshals, acting under Marshal Hall of New Mexico and two companies of troops from Fort Bayard and Fort Grant and that an attack will be made as soon as troops and marshals have entirely surrounded the place where the robbers are supposed to be fortified.

Oil Wells in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—A. H. Eddy of Hartford, Wash., has returned from Alaska, where he reports having discovered two great petroleum wells in the mountains not far back from the coast and within 100 miles from Juneau. He brought samples of the crude oil which he proposes to have tested. There is a flow of 200 or 300 barrels daily, Eddy alleges, from each well, and he thinks it not improbable this section may rival the great oil fields of Pennsylvania.

DINSMORE MOBBED.

The Congressman Reverts Being Called a Liar and Trouble Follows.

Fort Smith, Ark., Aug. 28.—Congressman Hugh A. Dinsmore of the Fifth Arkansas district and ex-United States minister to Corea, was mobbed at a political speaking at Englehardt, Van Buren county, on Wednesday, and sustained injuries which will confine him to his bed for some time to come. Dinsmore was recently renominated for a third term in congress. He spoke at Englehardt Wednesday and divided his time with Jerry Scanlan, a local populist candidate. In the course of his speech, Scanlan called Dinsmore a liar, whereupon the congressman struck Scanlan in the face. Immediately four of Scanlan's friends attacked Dinsmore and before his friends could get to him he was almost insensible.

A Pig on a Tragedy.

"I see they are using carrier pigeons quite extensively again." "Yes, Young fellow up in our neighborhood trained one to fly to his lady love's window. One day he tied a gushy mushy note around its neck and set it adrift. Pigeon flew down in the brewery yard and got full. Couple of bad boys came along and found the note on the disgraced bird. Consequently is they have been blackmailing my poor friend for dimes ever since." "What became of the girl?" "Girl waited for pigeon delivery long schedule time. Pigeon delivery didn't come. Girl got mad and engaged herself to 'nother fellow.'" "How about the pigeon?" "Pigeon sticks to brewery. Can't drive him away with a barrel stove. Intoxicated most of time. Terrible object lesson for the sparrows. Too bad, isn't it?"
